

Prtinternational.com launched

Contributed by Administrator
Wednesday, 12 November 2008

Â

Ed Anderson has launched his new website for PRT International. He has had www.prtinternational.com Â as a domain for a little while but has not felt he needed to launch a website until now. The website showcases his PRT technology which he is calling ITNS or an Intelligent Transportation Network System. Ed says ITNS synthesizes decades of research, development, design, and planning.

The launch of the website effectively shows Ed and his team are open for business and looking for opportunities to put ITNS to work. Read the current newsletter announcing the website launch here

The website was developed with assistance from our very own PRTNZ.com - a result of the working relationship between Ed and Will Wilson, the author of this site.